

7. FELADATSOR • ÍRÁSKÉSZSÉG

Task B

You are the editor of the school magazine. Here is a letter which you have recently received from one of the readers.

I'm writing to you because my parents want to spoil my holidays. I'd like to go camping with my friends but they won't let me go. They say it's too dangerous and that I won't eat properly and things like that. Instead, they want to send me to my aunties' to a boring out-of-the-way town. What can I do there? What's more, my aunts will keep ordering me about – sending me to the shops a hundred times a day, for example. And who will I talk to there? My aunts (and their friends who come to see them) are old people and we don't have much of common interest. How can I make my parents drop their idea? Please help!

Write a letter of about 120–150 words to Jimmy.

Respond to him giving your opinion on the following points:

- understanding the parents' point about the risks of camping
- finding ways of having a good time in that town as well
- making the parents more understanding about his points
- ways of finding a compromise between the holiday plans

Begin your letter like this:

Dear Jimmy,
